

iCONNECT software, services and people have been a trusted resource for law firms, corporations, government agencies and litigation support providers in multiple high-profile, settled / ruled cases.

Mattel Inc. V. MGA Entertainment Inc. (2011)

iCONNECT platform used by Quinn Emmanuel Urquart & Sullivan, LLP through a Legal Service Provider in TrialGraphix (Kroll On-Track)

Mattel was forced to pay $88.5 million to MG Entertainment in a dispute over the Bratz line of dolls. The court found that Mattel did not own drawings of Bratz dolls. The Bratz dolls hurt the sales of Barbie dolls significantly over the period of time that the Bratz dolls were on the market.

Plaintiffs v. Bayer Healthcare Pharmaceuticals (2011)

iCONNECT platform used by the law firm of Schlichter, Bogard & Denton

1,300 cases / plaintiffs in a MDL Litigation against Bayer claiming its Yasmin line of birth-control pills caused blood clots in women. Bayer AG (BAYRY) said settlements of U.S. lawsuits over claims that its Yasmin line of birth-control pills caused blood clots have increased to more than $402 million.

Plaintiffs v. Merck (Vioxx Litigation) (2011 & 2007)

iCONNECT used by Merck through a Legal Service Provider in ACT - US DOJ v. Merck & Co., Inc. (settled Nov. 2011)

Cases filed against Merck over adverse cardiovascular events associated with Rofecoxib and the adequacy of Merck's warnings. Merck will pay nearly $1 billion to resolve criminal charges and civil claims related to its marketing of Vioxx, a widely used pain medicine that the giant drug maker pulled from the market in 2004. Close to 50,000 Plaintiff Lawsuits v Merck & Co, Inc. (settled in 2007 for $4.85 Billion).

Plaintiffs v. BP Oil (Deepwater Horizon Litigation) (2010)

iCONNECT used by BP Oil plaintiffs through a Legal Service Provider in conjunction with Herman, Herman, Katz & Coltar

BP and three other energy companies reached a settlement with with thousands of individuals and businesses affected by the 2010 Deepwater Horizon spill that killed 11 workers and fouled the Gulf of Mexico with millions of gallons of oil. BP officials said they expect the company to pay out approximately 7.8 billion as a settlement with more than 100,000 plaintiffs who are suing the oil giant and others for their role in the spill.

Plaintiffs v. Trafigura Beheer (Ivory Coast Pollution) (2009)

iCONNECT used by Leigh Day through Trilantic International Limited, a Legal Service Provider based in the United Kingdom

The case relates to an incident in 2006 when slops from a cargo ship that Trafigura had chartered were dumped in Abidjan, Ivory Coast's main city. Oil-trading firm Trafigura Beheer BV said it has agreed to pay nearly £30 million ($48.7 million) in compensation to people in Ivory Coast who say they were made ill by waste dumped in the West African country.

HIGH PROFILE CASES

Plaintiffs v. Chinese-Manufactured Drywall (2009)

iCONNECT used by Parker, Waichman, Alonso LLP

Chinese Drywall refers to an environmental health issue involving defective drywall manufactured in China and imported to the USA starting in 2001. Laboratory test of samples for volatile chemicals have identified emissions of the sulfurous gases carbon disulfide, carbonyl sulfide, and hydrogen sulfide. The case name of the major lawsuit is MDL 2047, In re: Chinese-manufactured Drywall Products Liability Litigation. Settlements ongoing.

Oracle Corp v. SAP AG (2007)

iCONNECT used through the law firm of Jones Day

Oracle sued SAP, alleging that SAP had engaged in copyright infringement by downloading thousands of copyrighted documents and programs from Oracle's Customer Connection website. Oracle, the world's largest maker of database software, won a $1.3 billion jury verdict in the case in 2010. A federal judge reduced the award to $272 million. The companies agreed on a judgment for $306 million in damages "to save time and expense of this new trial."

British Nuclear Fuels $5.4 billion sale of Westinghouse Electric Company to Toshiba Corporation (2006)

iCONNECT platform used by Sutherland, Asbill & Brennan, LLP

A cross-practice Sutherland team of more than 30 attorneys served as counsel for British Nuclear Fuels plc in BNFL's $5.4 billion sale of Westinghouse Electric Company to Toshiba Corporation. The purchase agreement was signed in London on Monday, February 6, 2006. The $5.4 billion purchase price represents a significant return on BNFL's investment, as the company bought Westinghouse in 1999 for only $1.1 billion.

AMD v. Intel (2005)

iCONNECT used through the law firm of O'Melveny & Meyers, LLP

AMD launched the lawsuit against its rival, Intel, the world's leading microprocessor manufacturer. AMD has claimed that Intel engaged in unfair competition by offering rebates to Japanese PC manufacturers who agreed to eliminate or limit purchases of microprocessors made by AMD or a smaller manufacturer, Transmeta. Burying a very large hatchet in the computing industry, Intel agreed to pay Advanced Micro Devices $1.25 billion as part of a settlement.

Eastman Kodak Co. v Sun Microsystems, Inc. (2004)

iCONNECT used by Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich & Rosati through a Legal Service Provider in Texas

Kodak sued Sun in 2002, claiming that Sun's Java programming language violated three of its patents. Case resulted in the jury's finding of infringement by Sun Microsystems in favor of Kodak, which resulted in a settlement of $92 million in exchange for a license under Kodak's patents.

FERC Western Energy Markets Investigation as Part of the Enron Investigation (2004)

iCONNECT used by FERC through a Legal Service Provider in Washington, DC

Federal energy regulators investigation of Enron to review that the bankrupt power-trader had used "deceit" and "false information" in an attempt to profit from California's troubled electricity market. In addition to probing three Enron subsidiaries for possible misconduct during the California crisis in 2000 and 2001, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission investigated two out-of-state electric utilities that did business with Enron.

FIND OUT MORE

Contact iCONNECT for a list of iCONNECT-XERA GLOBAL partners.
www.iCONNECT.com | info@iCONNECT.com | 1-855-915-8888

Copyright© 2017 iCONNECT Development, LLC. All rights reserved. iCONNECT and XERA are registered trademarks of iCONNECT Development, LLC. All brand names are either trademarks or registered trademarks of their respective companies.